A word from the directors

Clare Nicholas

Peter Wooldridge

Peter - Back in the spring of 2010 I took to the stage for the first time in my life appearing in the Worthy Players production of ‘Allo ‘Allo. I had never previously thought of doing something like that. 5 years on I find myself in a similar position as for the first time in my life I am directing a play. Whether my first appearance as a director is also my last will, I guess, be in the hands of you, the audience. If your response to this production is favourable then maybe I will be inspired to direct again. The opposite is, of course, unthinkable. Luckily I have not been alone in my directorial debut as I have been more than ably supported by my co-director Clare, whose input has been invaluable, and who equally has never directed before. My thanks must go to the cast for their patience, support and co-operation and to all the others who have helped with set building, front of house, lighting, costumes props and stage management etc. I must also thank our prompt, Alison Woolford, who has not only been prompting but has also read in for people on holiday, which is one of the problems of doing a summer play. Also our Chairman, Nick Kearns and Doug Mackie have kindly stepped in to read in for various parts at various points in time. Finally, a big thank you to all of you who have come along to watch. Hopefully, you will not be disappointed with what you are about to see.

Clare - I have been a part of the Worthy Players for more than ten years now and always kept clear of the thought of directing. It wasn't until Peter, a fellow directing novice, suggested clubbing together to direct a play as the group were short of directors. Suddenly, the thought of directing for the first time didn't seem quite so daunting when you're not in it alone. Full credit to Peter for finding a fantastic play, and between us, we hope that we have put together a well cast and well directed play that you will thoroughly enjoy. I know I speak for both of us when I say I have enjoyed my first stint as a director, and may even consider doing it again! Thanks to everyone who has been involved and supported us along the way, we are very grateful.

The Cast of ‘Murder by the Book’

Christine Scott

Janine Blackmore

Janine has been a member of The Worthy Players for more years than she cares to think about. This marks the first time in a while that she has taken on a larger part, rather than her usual cameo appearance.

Imogen Piper

Kirsty Turner

Another show, another hard done-by wife to play! Or is she? At least she is slightly more glamorous than Mrs Lovett! Kirsty has been with the very Worthy Players for 5 years now and looking forward to many more....

Peter Fletcher

Michael Heseldin

Has been a member of the Worthy Players for almost 21 years – last seen as Widow Twanky in the pantomime in December. In a change of pace, this time he is playing a know-it-all smart-*!

Selwyn Piper

David Woolford

This is David's largest role in recent years. David's latest credits include: - Compere in 'Worthys Got Talent' 2013, Producing Aladdin 2014, co-starring with Eric in the TV programme South Today, playing 'The Sherriff' in The Mayor's music hall' and Rueben in 'The Militants'

John Douglas

Tim Ellwood

This is Tim's fourth show with the Worthy Players and he's enjoying every minute of it. After playing Sweeney Todd in the last show he is now looking forward to playing someone who is not as mad as a bicycle (or is he?). You can make up your own mind.

SUMMARY: Manhattan Police Inspector Cramer asks for Wolfe's help in solving the suspicious death of a law office clerk who has been fished out of the Hudson River. His probable homicide-causing offense?Â Murder By The Book. 1. SOMETHING remarkable happened that cold Tuesday in January. Inspector Cramer, with no appointment, showed up a little before noon at Nero Wolfe's old brownstone on West Thirty-fifth Street and, after I had ushered him into the office and he had exchanged greetings with Wolfe and lowered himself into the red leather chair, he said right out, "I dropped in to ask a little favor."
